

ABSTRACT

A system for aiding children in wiping and self-cleaning after toilet use. More specifically, a disposable "glove"-like sheath into which the child's hand is inserted and is then used to remove urine and fecal waste. After use, the glove is preferably deposited in the toilet. The sheath consists of a folded and seamed pre-moistened, non-woven material that can include a water dispersible binder. A dispenser system for the child's hand-wearable wiping system is also disclosed.